> "Golden Boy," story of a prize-fighting violinist, with Eric Linden and Bernice Claire in the leading roles, will be presented at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday at the Henry Clay high school auditorium. The stage play is the third of four to be brought to Lexington this year by the Lexington Junior League. It was origin ally scheduled for February 13.

The production, which first played Historians Pick Six in New York, then in London, was written by Clifford Odets, author of many successes Student tickets for this and "Hed-

Student Standards Election

I am appealing to you through The Kernel to make an effort to be present at the meetings this afternoon when representatives to the Student Standards committee will be elected.

All Lexington students are to meet at 4 p. m. today in the Union music room to elect one man and one woman to the committee. At the same hour, all men living in boarding houses will meet in Room 206 of the Union and elect one man to the committee.

Because the proposed committee is such an important group in the regulation of student conduct, it is to your advantage to see that representative students are selected for these positions.

Good Facts But A Bilious Presentation

Those one-page "We're Not So Dumb!" leaf lets distributed on the campus recently may be 'just propaganda" as we have heard it sneered, but students would do well to realize that it is 'propaganda" of their own making-at least indirectly

A careful reading of the printed matter will reveal one of the joint sponsors of the circulars as the National Student Federation of America, an organization which numbers among its members the University of Kentucky student body.

Too bad that really rather good facts should be couched in phrases so belligerent, so pugnacious, so militant. When will the framers of these "New Year's Resolutions" understand that an approach such as this only gives Kentucky students nervous indigestion?

Continuing The ASU Controversy

Last Friday there appeared in The Kernel an editorial stating facts which led to the conclusion that the American Student Union had taken the extreme Left turn at its December

Since that time we have been taken to task by several local affiliates of that organization for saving "The ASU (at the convention) admittedly had become amicable to the Communist movement." We wish to say now that the above conclusion was derived from those reached by the daily press. The facts we gave were taken directly from the newspapers and Time magazine, which we admit are for the most part conservative in policy.

When we were accused of omitting facts which would have changed our conclusions, we determined to investigate the matter more thoroughly. We did this not in defense of the Union per se, but in order that the organization might be given a fair trial. Our research included the columns of the Daily Worker, the New Repub- Finns than the Russian Reds are." lic, the Nation and the dispatches of the Associated Press of December 30. We felt that this Middle. Our findings follow:

the other is an imperialist war, is not a fight in the interests of democracy or the smaller nations, but for markets and colonies. We find the causes of the war in German aggression and the long-standing British policy of appeasement in the hope of launching a war against the Soviet Another important paragraph said: "In contrast to the war on the Western Front, we recognize the war in the Far East as a struggle of the Chinese people against Japanese aggression and for national independence.

An amendment to the entire resolution, proposed by Executive Secretary Joe Lash and National Chairman Molly Yard, and designating Russia as the aggressor in the Russo-Finnish conflict, was defeated by a vote of 322 to 49.

The Daily Worker, the Associated Press, the Nation, and the New Republic all four considered the resolution the convention's keynote. The Daily Worker printed the entire resolution: the remaining three journals listed the safient points, including the two quoted above. All four agencies mentioned the Lash-Yard amendated Press and the New Republic pointed out the fact that Lash insisted the ASU "be consistent" and brand Russia an aggressor as it had branded Italy, Germany, and Japan in the past. The Nation hinted at this point. The Daily Worker said nothing about it.

These facts, we must say, point rather strongly toward a sympathy for Soviet Russia on the part of the convention delegates themselves. However, we will admit that this does not neces- her it reminds me of the movies-double features.

sarily mean that the ASU as a whole harbors this Bark Worse favoritism, since each individual chapter is autonomous (the group's constitution grants them this right), and is entitled as such to disagree with the policy of the national office or the annual convention. The charter also gives each chapter the privilege of adopting its own individual policies, even though these beliefs are the very antithesis of those of the New York office.

Another reason we believe the convention may not have reflected the opinion of the entire order is that the Communist element within the Union (though decidedly in the minority) is better organized and more thoroughly disciplined than the rest, and it went to the Madison convention determined to dominate it. Since any member could attend, and since the Communists made it a point to attend, whereas the non-Communists did not, the convention naturally took on a deep pink shade. This system of "representation," which appears to be rather dangerous to the ASU's well-being, is noted by he Nation and the New Republic.

But how members can have the gall to insist that the convention did not show up Red we fail to understand. THE KERNEL desires to give every organization a square deal, but it also desires to present the truth, not propaganda.

Marking and Why

Among the many and varied com-plaints which college students have to make about their courses is that of the marking system at present in use in most educational institutions. From the first year of public school until the completion of university career, a student's abilities are judged by his instructors schooling is tabulated as A, B, C, D,

Can this system of grading be considered reliable by the instructors themselves? Do they feel that they can judge in a single reading serves a 49 failure or a 50 pass? Then again, do we as students tend to work for high marks, rather than for the sake of the knowledge which we can obtain? All these factors should be considered.

Not even two full weeks are left before we'll be plunged into those much dreaded exams, and while the general tendency among many people is to remark, "Don't mention them," more serious minds face them weeks ahead.

Let's take our typical coed, Jane, the one who was so conscious of etiquette last week, and see what she does about exams. Jane is one of those persons who absolutely has to make a standing, not only for her own peace of mind, but for that of the family and for the organization with which she is affiliated. So Jane ha

TENTATIVE DATE

Texas Tech, AUSTIN

By JOE CREASON

The sun isn't bright today. There is a moan in the breeze and the local birds sound despondent. Even the tempo of my typewriter is dirge-time.

Skies are tinged with gray, trees droop sadly, for life is hardly worth the living any more.

Know why? I'll tell you. According to propaganda from State, Xavier, West Virginia, and Western Kentucky State Teachers college M. Bowling Green, Adolph Rupp and his Kentucky basketball Wildcats are the season to date was the 36-30 scared to play Western. It's all due to a petition signed by 134 Western students asking that cellars when the subject is mentioned. Thus my grief!

All of which makes me laugh. Not just a chuckle, but a rousing bellytype roar worthy of any radio stooge. Hints that Kentucky is afraid to meet any team are as foolish as the antics of the fellow who kept hitting himself on the head with a hammer because it felt so good when he stopped.

During the course of this season the Cats are scheduled against crack teams from six of the nation's fastest conference's, Big 10, Buckeye, Big 6, Eastern Intercolleg- was one of eight leading clubs that iate, Southern and Southeastern. Yet the trio has never feuded finding the assassin of Cock Robin. for the state title, nor does Purdue or Indiana even play Notre Dame. If Western has the power team to which its followers point with such pardonable and blushing pride surely Kentucky is large enough to house two good teams.

As their proof that Western is in Kentucky's class, if not above, "Topper fans refer to statements by various and sundry referees. I wonder, could those good people be so naive as to think any official, in Bowling Green to work a game and desiring possibly to return again for such duties, would admit to them, sentimentally lop-sided as they are, that Kentucky has the better team ever though he was firmly convinced of the fact?
